Is there any way to change the background color of the popup menu in gvim? The default background color is pink, which is a little weird to me.

You can use the following highlight groups:

- `Pmenu` – normal item
- `PmenuSel` – selected item
- `PmenuSbar` – scrollbar
- `PmenuThumb` – thumb of the scrollbar

For example to set a grey background:

```
:highlight Pmenu ctermbg=gray guibg=gray

For Gvim you only need the `guibg` part (`ctermbg` is used when Vim is run in a terminal), but I find it useful to always define both.

I didn't know this either; I used `:help i_ctrl-x` to find the help page for that key, then followed the `ins-completion` link mentioned in the entry, and searched for highlight with `/highlight ;-`)

Another way to find this information would have been to use `:help highlight-groups`, which lists all default highlight groups.
